

Top 5 Facts about Prehistoric Creatures

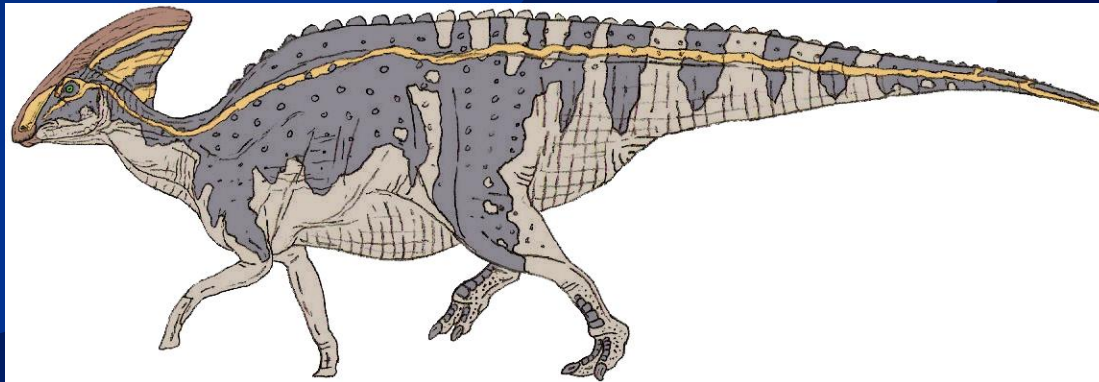

Hey there! Ready for 5 Prehistoric Facts?

Hey! I'm Rushank from Information 101 and I absolutely love dinosaurs and prehistoric creatures. I want to share the top 5 facts that interest me the most. My friend, Prachi, helped with the slideshow. Let's do the countdown to the last slide of facts. 🦖🦕

Prehistoric Fact #1

Did you know the loudest dinosaur is the parasauroplophus? The sound comes from the crest on its head. These dinosaurs live in a herd with many other dinos and the parasauroplophus was a herbivore.

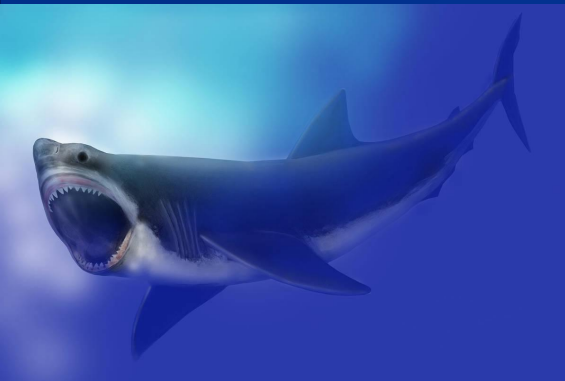

Prehistoric Fact #2

Did you know that the T. Rex's jaw was 4 feet long?
That's one big mouth, right?

Prehistoric Fact #3

Did you know that the Megalodon used to be the biggest shark? The Megalodon was 60 feet long, that's bigger was bigger than T. Rex! The Megalodon used to eat whales! Thank goodness they're extinct now.

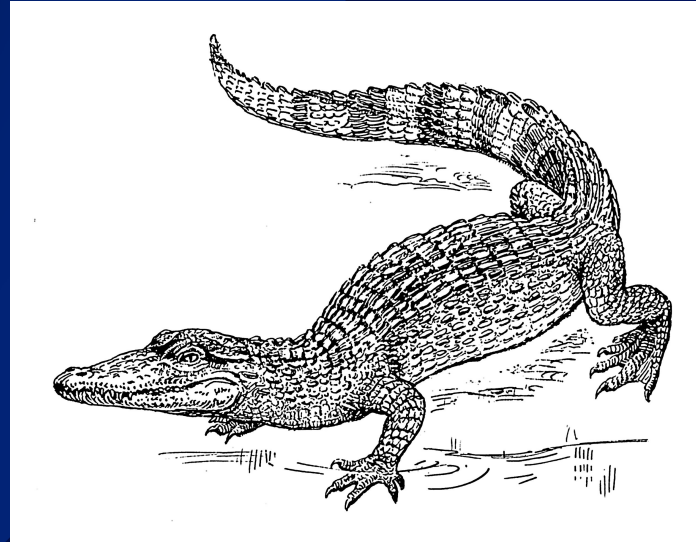

Prehistoric Fact #4

The spinosaurus was the only dinosaur that could swim and it was also bigger than the T. Rex. Most swimming creatures weren't dinosaurs.

Prehistoric Fact #5

Deinosuchus was not a dino but it looked like one. The deinosuchus was actually the ancestor of the modern crocodile!

Thanks for viewing!

Please like & subscribe and this is Rushank from Information 101 signing out!

Information 101

This slideshow was made by Information 101

Say bye to boring and say hello to Information 101! We're about fun facts, riddles, and awesome video games! We want to provide real entertainment by giving out riddles, and by making videos about the games we love playing. For our facts, they're just fun facts. We want to put the fun in facts, and we do that by finding the top most interesting facts that you did not know! If you want us to have many more videos, then smash the subscribe button and tell your friends all about us!

Information 101